HOW TO RAISE A BOY: BUILDING GOOD MEN FOR A NEW WORLD

There's a growing belief that "boys are broken," but while this crisis mentality is new, routine casualties have always been an inconvenient truth about boyhood.

Male socialization has been a sacrificial experience in which boys are fitted to cultural norms that work against their human natures. In fact, what's happening to boyhood is more creative disruption than crisis. Women's rights, civil rights, and gay rights have advanced equality and challenged the historic dominance of white males – and the system of conditioning sustaining it. While many males feel uncertain in this #MeToo moment, there are many indications that a reimagining of masculinity is well underway.

Educators, coaches, and parents of boys will require support and guidance in this time of transition. The opportunities are huge for school specialists.

Michael C. Reichert, Ph.D. is an applied and research psychologist who has long been an advocate for children and families. He has counseled youth involved in the juvenile justice system and led treatment teams in a psychiatric hospital. He has created and run programs in both inner city communities and in affluent suburban communities worldwide. He established one of the first school-based research centers devoted to understanding the particular needs of boys and continues to lead The Center for the Study of Boys' and Girls' Lives.

Since 1984, Dr. Reichert has maintained a clinical practice outside Philadelphia, PA, specializing in work with boys, men and their families. He has also served as the supervising psychologist at The Haverford School and, more recently, at Tower Hill School in Wilmington, DE.

HOW TO RAISE A BOY RIGHT

LEARNING OBJECTIVES: Upon completion of this training, participants will be able to:

- demonstrate mastery of the concept that boyhood is a social construction never designed to fit boys' basic developmental needs and that the costs of this poor fit have been steep for both the society and for males
- apply key dimensions of child development – emotional literacy, friendship and intimacy, health and wellness, violence, digital citizenship – to the gendered nature of threats and casualties
- describe a relational approach to teaching, mentoring and parenting boys for its power to nurture virtue and resilience

FEES: This workshop is free for members of SOS, PSCP, and staff at the host school. There is a $15.00 admission fee for others. CE credits and Act 48 credits are $30.00 each. Payment must be made online, by check, or money order made out to SOS. NO CASH PLEASE.

CANCELLATION POLICY: You are holding a spot so reservations for this workshop are non-refundable. If you cancel at least 48 hours before the event, you will be issued a credit memo (minus a $10 transaction fee) to use for another SOS workshop within the year.

TO REGISTER: visit www.specialistsofschools.org (if you are a member please sign-in), click the name of the event, select the appropriate registration option and click the "Register Now" button, then follow the onscreen instructions to pay by credit card. This is strongly recommended, as it will decrease a lot of waiting time and confusion at the registration table.

CE CREDITS: This session is co-sponsored by the Philadelphia Society of Clinical Psychologists (PSCP) and Specialists of Schools. PSCP is approved by the American Psychological Association to offer Continuing Education (CE) for psychologists. PSCP maintains responsibility for the program and its content. This program provides 2 hours of CE credits for Licensed Psychologists, Social Workers, Licensed Professional Counselors, and Marriage and Family Therapists.

DIRECTIONS: Will be included with the handouts.
